Los Angeles led the league in field goal percentage (50.2%) and starting lineup scoring (87.5 ppg), while ranking third in free throws made per game (20.4). The Lakers also paced the NBA in clutch net rating (+26.0), going 22-8 in clutch games, a significant jump from last season's +3.8 mark (13th) and the franchise's best clutch rating in 25 years. Individually, Luka Dončić led the league in scoring (33.5 ppg), Luke Kennard topped the NBA in 3-point percentage (47.8%), Deandre Ayton ranked second in field goal percentage (67.1%) and Rui Hachimura finished fifth in 3-point percentage (44.3%). Hachimura marked the highest 3-point percentage in a single full season in Lakers history.

LUKA PACES LEAGUE: Luka Dončić led the league in scoring this season, averaging 33.5 points in 64 games (all starts). His scoring average ranks as the fourth-highest in a single season in franchise history, trailing only Kobe Bryant (35.4, 2005-06) and Elgin Baylor (34.8, 1960-61; 34.0, 1962-63). The honor marks Dončić's second career scoring title and his second in the last three seasons, a feat achieved just five times leaguewide since 2010-11. He becomes the 20th player in NBA history to win multiple scoring titles and the first Laker to do so since Bryant in 2006-07. Dončić is also the fifth player in franchise history to capture the league's scoring crown. He is now tied for the most scoring titles by a point guard in NBA history.

LONGEVITY IS KING: LeBron James concluded his league-record 23rd regular season averaging 20.9 points on 51.5% shooting from the field, 31.7% from deep and 73.7% from the free throw line to go with 6.1 rebounds, 7.2 assists and 1.2 steals in 60 games (all starts). Over his 15 seasons, he was part of 14 teams that advanced to the playoffs.

Shortly after his retirement on Sept. 21, 2021, Redick joined ESPN as a game analyst and was promoted to the network’s lead broadcast team by the end of the 2023-24 season. In June of 2024, Redick called the NBA Finals alongside colleagues Mike Breen and Doris Burke.

Redick is a co-founder of ThreeFourTwo Productions where he co-hosted two popular podcasts: Mind the Game alongside Lakers star LeBron James and The Old Man and the Three. His success in broadcasting and media further showcased his basketball acumen, paving the way for his transition to coaching with the Lakers in 2024.

Selected 11th overall in the 2006 NBA Draft by the Orlando Magic, Redick starred at Duke University from 2002-06. A two-time consensus first-team All-American, he was named the 2006 Naismith Men’s College Player of the Year and remains the program’s all-time leading scorer. Duke retired his No. 4 jersey on Feb. 4, 2007, and he was inducted into the Duke Athletics Hall of Fame in 2024. Prior to his collegiate career, Redick was a McDonald’s All-American at Cave Spring High School in Roanoke, Va.

Redick and his wife, Chelsea, have two sons, Knox and Kai.
